The Denver Regional Council of Governments (DRCOG), in conjunction with the Colorado Department of Local Affairs - Office of Smart Growth and the Colorado Chapter of the American Planning Association \(APA\), is offering an exclusive workshop for local government planning commissioners. This day-long workshop is committed to providing both newly appointed and seasoned planning commissioners with information to help them in the essential job they perform in their communities.

Following a plenary session on new federal sustainability initiatives, workshop attendees have the opportunity to choose between two diverse training tracks:

- Planning Commissioner Training: providing information on the roles, responsibilities and fundamentals of being a planning commissioner (recommended for newly appointed commissioners).
- Special Topics: including one session on regional planning and a second session introducing and highlighting the relationship between public health and planning.

This workshop is open to all, but space is limited to 70 registrants, with preference given to planning commissioners. The workshop should also appeal to Board of Adjustment members, zoning hearing officers, planning department staff, city attorneys, elected officials, and planning, engineering, and public administration students.

Take a look at the list of speakers and the agenda. Note: When registering, please make sure you register for the track you'd like to attend, either the Planning Commissioners Training Track or the Special Topics Track.

If you are driving to our location, construction of the new Ralph L. Carr Justice Center is changing parking availability around DRCOG's building, however, there are many nearby meters and lots. Check the map of DRCOG's location to find convenient parking.
